1 Overview

The superemoji package provides semantic emoji commands for $\text{\LaTeX}$ documents. Instead of inserting raw Unicode emoji characters, you use meaningful keys like `\emoji{status-ok1}` or `\emoji{gis-select1}`.

This package contains 2037 emoji definitions organized into semantic categories.

1.1 Requirements

- LuaLaTeX compiler (required for color emoji rendering)
- Twemoji Mozilla font installed (COLR/CPAL vector format works best with LuaLaTeX)
- Packages: `fontspec`, `etoolbox`

1.2 Quick Start

```
\documentclass{article}
\usepackage{fontspec}
\usepackage{superemoji}

\newfontfamily\EmojiFont{Twemoji Mozilla}[Renderer=HarfBuzz]
\renewcommand{\emoji}[1]{%
  \ifcsdef{emoji@#1}{\EmojiFont\csname emoji@#1\endcsname}{?}%
}

\begin{document}
Status: \emoji{status-ok1} \emoji{status-error1}
GIS: \emoji{gis-select1} \emoji{gis-buffer1}
Mood: \emoji{emo-joy1} \emoji{emo-sad1}
\end{document}
```

Compile with: `lualatex yourdocument.tex`

2 Complete Emoji Reference

Every key defined by the package is listed below, grouped by family and generated directly from `emoji-map.json` (rerun `generate_doc_tables.py` after any change). A few entries use Unicode 15/16 codepoints that Twemoji Mozilla v0.7.0 predates and render as boxes – see Troubleshooting.

3 Troubleshooting

3.1 Emoji not rendering (shows ?)

- Verify the key exists in `emoji-map.json`
- Keys are case-sensitive: `status-ok1` $\neq$ `Status-OK1`
- Check that `emoji-map.tex` is in your TeX path

3.2 Black & white instead of color

- Ensure you're using LuaLaTeX (not XeLaTeX or pdfLaTeX)
- Verify Noto Color Emoji font is installed
- Add `[Renderer=HarfBuzz]` to font declaration

3.3 Font not found

Install Noto Color Emoji:

- Windows: Download from Google Fonts, double-click to install
- macOS: `brew install --cask font-noto-color-emoji`
- Linux (Debian/Ubuntu): `sudo apt install fonts-noto-color-emoji`
- Linux (Fedora): `sudo dnf install google-noto-emoji-color-fonts`

3.4 Compilation errors with special characters

Some emoji keys contain underscores or other special characters. The package handles escaping automatically, but if you're defining custom keys, avoid `#`, `%`, `&`, `$`, `_`, `{`, `}` unless properly escaped.
